Hearings To Be Finished Today Unless Argument Comes Up Again

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — John F. Finerty, New York and Washington lawyer, today told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that arming of American merchant ships will give German submarines the right under international law to sink the vessels without warning.

The committee heard Finerty after members engaged in a row over procedure which resulted in a secret session to thrash out differences. Republican members charged "gag" rule by the majority.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — Republican charges of "gag" rule precipitated a row in the House Foreign Affairs Committee today as it assembled to hear witnesses attack the administration's bill to permit arming of American merchant ships.

The quarrel, which arose over methods of calling opposition witnesses, ended temporarily when the committee voted, ten to six, to thrash out differences in executive session.

Chairman Sol Bloom repeatedly rapped his gavel as Reps. Vorys (R) Ohio, and Mundt (R) N. D., protested against "railroading" the proposed amendment to the Neutrality Act.

Even after the committee voted to go into secret session—and thus exclude newspapermen and a few spectators—Rep. Mundt sought to speak.

"You sit down, Mr. Mundt," shouted Bloom, ferociously hanging his gavel.

The committee, which yesterday heard high ranking cabinet officers urge speedy enactment of the ship amendment bill to aid American merchantmen in foiling Hitler's submarines, was to conclude hearings today.

At the outset Bloom took exception to statements that he had invited opposition witnesses. He said he only replied to telegrams requesting the privilege of appearing after Republicans refused to call witnesses.

Rep. Vorys asked Bloom if the committee hearings would be (Continued on Page Two)

SHIP EMPLOYED BY NAZIS TOWED TO BOSTON PORT

Immigration Officials To Consider Fate Of Men On Supply Boat

BOSTON, Oct. 14 — The Norwegian supply ship Busko, bearing the personnel of a German-operated radio station which was seized in Greenland by American Navy officials last month, was brought into Boston today by the U. S. S. Bear.

Aboard the vessel, which was towed up to Pier 5, South Boston, were the men who were found aboard the ship when a navy patrol came on her in waters near the Nazi short-wave station. All the men were held for individual examination by immigration authorities.

The Navy Department held those aboard the Busko incommunicado.

The Bear, a converted barkentine, towed the 60-ton supply ship into port.

The Bear was formerly a part of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, later being turned over to the Navy. She was on patrol duty off Greenland at the time of the seizure of the station and the Busko.

The Busko was not armed, and members of the crew reported that no resistance was put up by either (Continued on Page Two)

GERMANS SCOFF AT REPORTS OF TROOP LANDING

BERLIN, Oct. 14 — German authorities poured derision today on reports that a British expeditionary force, 40,000 strong, has landed at Archangel and elsewhere on the shores of the White Sea.

A spokesman said: "Landing a thousand men there is just another gesture like all Prime Minister Churchill's stunts. It does not mean anything and cannot accomplish anything."

"If 10,000,000 crack Stalin troops with the best fortifications and weapons could not hold the German armies, what can a ridiculous B.E.F. unit do except calm down the outcry of the opposition to England?"

ARIAS REACHES PANAMA

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Oct. 14 — The steamer carrying former President Arnulfo Arias of Panama back home from Havana anchored in Cristobal harbor this morning. Canal Zone officials went aboard immediately to confer with him. Arias was deposited in a bloodless coup d'etat during his absence in Havana.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — The stock market was sluggish and irregularly lower today as trading was resumed after the holiday week end.

Mountain Climber Dies, Five Are Rescued When Blizzard Strikes Party

JEFFERSON, N. H., Oct. 14 — A wild early season blizzard that broke suddenly over the Presidential range of the White Mountains today claimed the life of a youthful mountain climber, one of a group of nine attempting to scale Mt. Jefferson.

Victim of the storm was L. Carl Haberland, 26, Roslindale, a veteran mountain climber.

Five others in the party, two of them women, were saved after three

McCAW ASSAILS FERGUSON OVER PENSION CHECKS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — Old Age Pension Chief Tom McCaw today accused State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat, of "childish, obstructionist tactics" in the handling of pension checks, and threatened to file a mandamus action if necessary to expedite the mailing of pension checks.

McCaw said that Ferguson's office had the third mailing, comprising about 25,000 checks for recipients in eight counties, ready for transfer to the old age pension division last Friday but had withheld them until today.

The recipients are those in Cuyahoga, Franklin, Crawford, Darke, Deane, Delaware, Erie, Fairfield and Fayette Counties. The checks are scheduled for mailing tomorrow and McCaw charged that one day was not a reasonable length of time to allow for the mailing of 25,000 vouchers.

McCaw asserted Claude L. Fillere, supervisor of the aid for aged division of the auditor's office, had told him that he was instructed by Ferguson not to turn over the checks until the last possible minute. This, McCaw charged, "was an obvious attempt to embarrass the administration and create worry in the minds of the pensioners."

"He cannot possibly stymie us indefinitely," McCaw asserted. "If necessary, I will take him to court. The law clearly states that warrants shall be delivered. . . by the division of aid for the aged in such manner as the division may prescribe."

McCaw said that the checks would go out on schedule even if extra help had to be transferred to the mailing department and "employees forced to work all night."

MORRILL IS PRAISED AS RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — With "the greatest reluctance," the resignation of Dr. J. L. Morrill as vice president of Ohio State University was accepted today by the trustees who paid tribute to his "unwavering devotion to ideals, his fairness in decision and his fine sense of comradeship." Dr. Morrill's resignation becomes effective December 1, and the following day he takes over the presidency of the University of Wyoming.

Shown in the air over Hawthorne, Cal., is the new "flying wing" plane developed by the Northrop Aircraft Corporation. The craft, of radically new design, having no fuselage or tail, is expected to aid America's race for air supremacy by increasing the speed, payload and range of her planes. The pilot's cockpit is housed directly in the wing with two engines on either side. Tests are conducted in utmost secrecy.

R A F RESUMES GREAT ATTACK

Dusseldorf And Cologne Areas Hit; Docks Of Boulogne Raided

LONDON, Oct. 14 — British bombers hammered the industrial cities of Dusseldorf and Cologne and other targets in western Germany with tons of high explosives last night and early today while another small force bombed the docks at Nazi-occupied Boulogne on the French coast.

Still other R. A. F. planes attacked shipping off the Dutch and French coasts, according to an Air Ministry communique, which said five aircraft were missing.

The new attacks were a part of the round-the-clock R. A. F. aerial offensive to relieve Nazi pressure on Russia.

Like the all-out attacks of the previous night, the assaults were believed to have been exceptionally heavy, concentrating particularly on industrial centers of the Reich.

(An official German announcement stated British bombers during the night dropped explosive and incendiary bombs on several places in western Germany, but failed to cause "war-important" damage. The communique said several civilians were killed and two British planes shot down.)

Yesterday and last evening R. A. F. squadrons rocked the Nazi-occupied French coast with bombs and crippled a German warship in a Norwegian fjord, according to the Air Ministry.

A communique said 20 German machines had been shot down in yesterday's furious sky duels against 13 British planes—including one bomber—lost. (The Germans claimed 28 British planes were downed yesterday in addition to two more shot down last night.)

CHARGES NAMING DRAFT DODGER TO BE NOLLED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — The Justice Department today moved to dismiss four indictments still standing against Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, most publicized draft dodger of World War I.

They said the move would pave the way for his eventual parole from Ft. Leavenworth military prison where he is serving an eight year sentence.

Bergdoll was convicted of evading the Selective Service Act of 1917. He fled to Germany during the World War and remained there until 1939 when he returned to stand court martial.

Under War Department regulations, Bergdoll may not be paroled from a military prison as long as indictments stand against him.

MOSCOW READY FOR SIEGE WITH NAZIS MARCHING

Fighting Rages On, Though Fury Of Offensive Has Slackened

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 — The sprawling city of Moscow prepared itself for a desperate siege today as countless thousands of German mechanized troops drove forward at slackened pace to the approaches of the capital.

Official Soviet newspapers admitted that the situation was "grave," but emphasized that heavy fighting continued in all sectors and said that the initial fury of the 13-day Nazi offensive had to some extent at least spent itself.

Russian defenses are growing in numbers and strength, the official Communist party newspaper Pravda said, as the German menace nears Moscow.

"Tank ditches and everything necessary for an intense, stubborn and prolonged defense of the distant defenses of the capital are under construction," Pravda disclosed.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star told of fierce fighting east of Vyazma, where the Germans are throwing in fresh tank and infantry reserves, supported by planes and artillery in admitted numerical superiority.

"The enemy in this area continues to threaten Soviet defense," Red Star said. "The situation is grave. Nevertheless the Red army is fighting stubbornly, returning blow for blow and inflicting enormous losses."

Pravda, however, said that the tempo of the German offensive in the Vyazma area was slackening as Russian resistance grew. The Germans were said to be attempting complicated maneuvers, hurling tanks and motorized infantry from sector to sector.

Vyazma Combat Fierce

"The sky around Vyazma is an arena of fiercest combat," Pravda said.

LONDON — The Free Netherlands admiralty announced today that a Dutch submarine operating with the British navy in the Mediterranean torpedoed and sank a fully-loaded enemy supply ship of about 3,500 tons.

REICH'S FINAL ASSAULT NEAR

Prisoners in Bryansk and Vyazma Zones Total 350,000, According to Advices from Berlin; More Claims Aired

LONDON, Oct. 14 — The gigantic battle on the Central Russian Front where Nazi legions are driving against Moscow is approaching its climax, British military authorities declared today, adding the Germans are making an "utmost effort" to obtain a decision.

They said advices reaching London military quarters in the last few hours showed that the tremendous engagement, involving millions of men, has reached its peak and that the result soon may be known.

Pointing out the battle can end only in either the fall of Moscow, frustration of the Nazi attack or defeat of the attacking forces, an authoritative military spokesman refused to elaborate on or even to indicate how the British regard the probable outcome.

BERLIN, Oct. 14 — German authorities announced today that heavy artillery is now pounding the "outer defense belt" of Moscow and rocking the western approaches to the Russian capital from emplacements less than 60 miles away.

Other operations were declared to be in progress in "different directions," but the fact that large-calibre cannon are blasting Moscow's first line defense positions indicated the bulk of the German armies are prepared to attack Moscow at a given signal.

German authorities indicated Chancellor Hitler's legions already have taken up positions for the anticipated assault on the heart of the Soviet Empire.

Depth and strength of the western defense belt surrounding Moscow have not yet been ascertained, German authorities said, but it was revealed that the German high command now believes Moscow will not be spared the horrors of battle.

The latest high command communique gave relatively few details regarding the latest operations on the Russian Front, stating:

"In the east operations are progressing as planned. "Troops of the enemy cordoned off in the Bryansk sector have been divided into several groups. Their annihilation in the difficult forest region is progressing steadily."

"By yesterday the number of prisoners taken in the battles of Bryansk and Vyazma had reached more than 350,000 and the number is still growing. "German planes last night successfully bombed war-important establishments in Leningrad."

"Dark Hours" Ahead

Promising that "dark hours" lie ahead for Moscow, German spokesmen claimed that reports reaching the Wilhelmstrasse show that the "exodus" from Moscow "no longer can be termed an evacuation."

They thus implied that a "headlong flight" from Moscow is now under way as the cannon thunder daily grows more audible.

SCOUTERS TO GATHER THURSDAY EVE AT CLUB

Scouters of the Pickaway County District will meet at the Pickaway Country Club Thursday evening at 7:30 to hear reports of committees on Organization, Finance, Cubbing, Advancement and Troop Service.

The meeting was originally scheduled for last Thursday night, but was postponed because of the Pumpkin Show. During the meeting plans will be drawn for the district's annual session.

DONAHEY ONE OHIOAN WHO IS NOT CANDIDATE

LIMA, Oct. 14 — Vile Donahey today removed himself from the field of potential 1942 Democratic gubernatorial nominees.

Donahey telephoned Francis W. Durbin, Allen County Democratic chairman, that he did not wish his name to be used on "straw vote" ballots to be marked tonight at a party rally in Lima, Durbin announced.

The former three-term governor and U. S. senator told Durbin he was not feeling well enough to attend tonight's rally.

BRITISH REMAIN SILENT IN CASE OF RUDOLF HESS

LONDON, Oct. 14 — Another unsuccessful attempt was made in the House of Commons today to unravel the Rudolf Hess affair.

Laborite William James Thorne asked Secretary for War Capt. David Margesson to tell the whole story.

"It would not be in the public interest to divulge his present whereabouts," Margesson said. Thorne asked a number of supplementary questions, but Margesson would only say:

"His daily rations are the same as those of his guards. He is getting no pay. He is being guarded by a 'mixed guard.'" Margesson would not explain the last remark.

POLICEMAN AND STRIKER BATTLE AT BENDIX FIRM

BENDIX, N. J., Oct. 14 — Stoning of workers by pickets and a flareup between a striker and a policeman brought three arrests today outside the strike-bound Air Associates plant.

Arrival of a group of workers by automobile brought the shower of stones. Police arrested two pickets as the instigators of the disorder.

A few minutes later a striker snatched a policeman's nightstick from his hands after the officer had allegedly struck him with it. The striker was arrested. The Defense Mediation Board has proposed a settlement of the strike, but the proposal has not been accepted.

JEFFERSON, N. H., Oct. 14—A wild early season blizzard that broke suddenly over the Presidential range of the White Mountains today claimed the life of a youthful mountain climber, one of a group of nine attempting to scale Mt. Jefferson.

Victim of the storm was L. Carl Haberland, 26, Roslindale, a veteran mountain climber.

Five others in the party, two of them women, were saved after three of the men in the group made their way down the mountain to an estate on Jefferson Highland Road, seven miles away, where they enlisted the aid of a trio of experienced mountain climbers.

"At the estate owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Carter, Boston, the trio found Adams Carter, Peter Hunsacker, both of Boston, and Dr. Edgar Bering, Salt Lake City. With only flashlights to guide them in the darkness the rescue trio made the dangerous ascent and guided the quintet to safety. They brought Haberland's body with them.

Haberland and his party became tired after the storm broke over the mountain. According to other members of the group he was the first to falter. After he collapsed the others carried him a short distance to a partial shelter under an overhanging ledge and put him in a sleeping bag. He died from exposure before aid reached them.

POLES PREPARE TO HELP SOVIET AGAINST NAZIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — Polish Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski today notified Secretary of State Cordell Hull that approximately 30,000 Polish citizens in Russia are about to go into action against the German army there.

The Polish envoy told reporters that the organization and equipment of two Polish divisions has been completed and they are expected momentarily to join the Soviet armies in attempting to stem the German advance. Ambassador Ciechanowski said he did not know on what sector the Polish troops would be thrown into action.

"He cannot possibly stymie us indefinitely," McCaw asserted. "If necessary, I will take him to court. The law clearly states 'that warrants shall be delivered. . . by the division of aid for the aged in such manner as the division may prescribe'."

DONAHEY ONE OHIOAN WHO IS NOT CANDIDATE

LIMA, Oct. 14—Vic Donahey today removed himself from the field of potential 1942 Democratic gubernatorial nominees.

Donahey telephoned Francis W. Durbin, Allen County Democratic chairman, that he did not wish his name to be used on "straw vote" ballots to be marked tonight at a party rally in Lima, Durbin announced.

The former three-term governor and U. S. senator told Durbin he was not feeling well enough to attend tonight's rally.

BRITISH REMAIN SILENT IN CASE OF RUDOLF HESS

LONDON, Oct. 14 — Another unsuccessful attempt was made in the House of Commons today to unravel the Rudolf Hess affair.

Laborite William James Thorne asked Secretary for War Capt. David Margesson to tell the whole story.

"It would not be in the public interest to divulge his present whereabouts," Margesson said.

Thorne asked a number of supplementary questions, but Margesson would only say:

"His daily rations are the same as those of his guards. He is getting no pay. He is being guarded by a 'mixed guard.'"

Margesson would not explain the last remark.

POLICEMAN AND STRIKER BATTLE AT BENDIX FIRM

BENDIX, N. J., Oct. 14—Stoning of workers by pickets and a flareup between a striker and a policeman brought three arrests today outside the strike-bound Air Associates plant.

Arrival of a group of workers by automobile brought the shower of stones. Police arrested two pickets as the instigators of the disorder.

A few minutes later a striker snatched a policeman's nightstick from his hands after the officer had allegedly struck him with it. The striker was arrested.

The Defense Mediation Board has proposed a settlement of the strike, but the proposal has not been accepted.

her crew or those manning the radio station when the capture was made.

Status in Doubt

Status of the men brought into Boston rested with the Immigration Department. Government officials said their cases would be investigated individually.

The exact number aboard the Busko was not known, but it was reported to be more than a score. Three men, one of them described as a German Gestapo agent, were seized at the short-wave station. Announcement of the seizure of the station and the ship was first made last Saturday at Washington by the Navy Department.

At that time, Navy authorities said that the station had been established to send "weather reports and other military information" to German authorities.

Although it was not known how many were on the Busko when it arrived today, Navy officials last Saturday referred to the complement as "about 20."

The Navy then said that the Busko's personnel, and the Gestapo agent and two Norwegians who were seized at the station, were being brought to the U. S. "for further examination."

BIG NAZI GUNS POUND MOSCOW

were stated to bar entrance into the city proper.

In addition to the frontal attack, it appeared, a serious flanking threat against Moscow also is developing. This was revealed in an announcement that the German advance from the Waldal region is now approaching the Moscow-Leningrad railway, probably above Kalinin.

Authorities said this advance probably occurred several days ago, and that the left wing is now "appreciably nearer" the Moscow region.

Destruction of the Soviet forces trapped in the iron rings near Vyazma and Bryansk was described as "largely a matter of mopping up and no longer a military problem."

This fact was said to have enabled the German high command to launch vast new pressure to the east.

It was stated that the frontal pressure has taken place southeast of Vyazma in a broad front. A spokesman said, however, that "this does not necessarily mean Kaluga has been occupied."

To Ignore Some Cities

This was regarded as an indication that larger Russian cities like Kaluga will be ignored for the moment for the sake of strategic goals lying still further east.

Military quarters also indicated that Kharkov in the Ukraine likewise may be passed by on grounds it "no longer plays a militarily significant role."

Authorities asserted the "mopping up details" are rapidly cleaning out the newly occupied areas and that supply columns are moving up directly behind the fighting lines.

Transportation to the rear of as yet uncounted Russian prisoners from the Vyazma and Bryansk areas was reported in full swing. Fighting inside the Vyazma ring was declared to have ended and that within the Bryansk ring was termed a "matter of skirmishes around woods and villages."

Authorities said many prisoners told German officers the effect of massed Stuka bombings plus artillery bombardment was humanly impossible to withstand and that the death rate inside the rings was "staggering."

TRUCKER FINED, JAILED

Edward Lockard, 44, Bloomington, was fined $100 and costs in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges' court Monday night for operating a motor vehicle when under the influence of alcohol. He was committed to County Jail for failure to pay the fine. Charges were filed against Lockard by Deputy Sheriff R. E. Armstrong, who made the arrest in Williamsport Sunday afternoon. Witnesses said Lockard's truck crowded several motorists off Route 22 before the arrest was made.

She laid her mother's purse containing $1,830 on the drug counter after purchasing the powder and went to the other side of the store. When she returned the purse was gone. The money had been paid to Mrs. Lesko by an insurance company after her husband's death.

"If we have time," the chairman replied.

Vorys then sought to introduce a letter from Republican members protesting against holding sessions with cabinet officers.

"We will take that up at the proper time," Bloom ruled.

"The chairman has just made a stump speech," Vorys exclaimed. "If you want to hold star chamber proceedings, permit witnesses to make statements and then 'gag' the minority, I protest."

Loudly banging his gavel, Bloom halted argument by ordering a vote on the secret session. Balloting was on party lines, except that Rep. Stearns (R) N. H., voted "present."

Meanwhile a canvass disclosed that the committee will report the bill permitting the arming of merchant ships by a decisive vote.

AGED MOTORIST FINED FOR RT. 22-104 CRASH

Charges of failing to observe a stop sign at Routes 22 and 104 were filed in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges' court late Monday against 77-year-old Frank Schaeffing, 375 West Seventh Avenue, Columbus, whose car was involved in an accident at the Route 22-104 intersection Sunday afternoon.

The charges were filed by State Highway Patrolman Russell Stevenson of Chillicothe, who claimed Schaeffing failed to stop for Route 22 as he approached it from the south on Route 104. The Columbus man was fined $25 and costs by Justice Hedges and was released after he had paid the fine.

RUEL TO RETAIN JOB

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 — Herold "Muddy" Ruel, pitching coach of the Chicago White Sox, today was signed to a three-year contract as assistant to Manager Jimmy Dykes. Signing of Ruel for three years marked only the second time that a major league coach has been signed for so long a term. Only other coach to receive a similar contract was Frank Shellenbach of the Boston Red Sox.

The Matterhorn, we read, has moved 50 miles from its original site. Even mountains, it would appear, are anxious to emigrate from Europe.

Differences To Be Argued In Executive Session, Vote Decides

"If we have time," the chairman replied.

Vorys then sought to introduce a letter from Republican members protesting against holding sessions with cabinet officers.

"We will take that up at the proper time," Bloom ruled.

"The chairman has just made a stump speech," Vorys exclaimed. "If you want to hold star chamber proceedings, permit witnesses to make statements and then 'gag' the minority, I protest."

Loudly banging his gavel, Bloom halted argument by ordering a vote on the secret session. Balloting was on party lines, except that Rep. Stearns (R) N. H., voted "present."

Meanwhile a canvass disclosed that the committee will report the bill permitting the arming of merchant ships by a decisive vote.

AGED MOTORIST FINED FOR RT. 22-104 CRASH

Charges of failing to observe a stop sign at Routes 22 and 104 were filed in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges' court late Monday against 77-year-old Frank Schaeffling, 375 West Seventh Avenue, Columbus, whose car was involved in an accident at the Route 22-104 intersection Sunday afternoon.

The charges were filed by State Highway Patrolman Russell Stevenson of Chillicothe, who claimed Schaeffling failed to stop for Route 22 as he approached it from the south on Route 104. The Columbus man was fined $25 and costs by Justice Hedges and was released after he had paid the fine.

The collision of Schaeffling's car with one from Cincinnati sent Schaeffling and his wife to Berger Hospital where they remained Sunday night. Both suffered from shock, and were released Monday.

CORN HUSKERS READY TO SEEK COUNTY HONORS

Contest To Start Next Monday At 10:30 At Ashville Farm

ENTRIES ARE SOUGHT

Winners To Attend State
Competition Near Urbana

With the Pumpkin Show behind them, farmers Tuesday were turning their attention to the next agricultural fete to be staged in the county, the corn husking contest.

The contest, to be held next Monday on the Roger Hedges farm near Ashville, promises to be outstanding in several respects.

The 20 acre plot where the contest will be held is planted with U. S. 13 hybrid which will yield about 60 bushels to the acre, nearly 20 bushels to the acre above the average, County Agent F. K. Blair pointed out Tuesday. Although the corn is down in patches, contestants should be able to set good records, the county agent said.

Both winners in the standing and in the shock competition will be back again this year to defend their county titles. They are Paul Winn of New Holland, shock corn winner last year, and Olan Schooley, Jackson Township, standing corn winner. Also entered in the shock corn contest this year is Lawrence Wright of Ashville, state husking champion in the shock corn contest several years ago.

Start At 10:30

The standing contest will begin at 10:30 a. m. and the shock contest will begin at 1:30 in the afternoon. Both matches will last for 80 minutes. Each contestant in the standing contest will be furnished with a team and driver, a referee and two gleaners. Five ounces of husks for every 100 pounds of corn will be allowed without deductions, but penalties will be placed against contestants having more than the permitted amount of husks.

Entries for the contest will close Saturday, and should be filed with County Agent Blair or with Mr. Hedges.

Winners in the county contest will be sent to the state competition at Urbana. The state matches will be held on the 900-acre farm of Harry Booher, midway between Urbana and Springfield two miles west of U. S. 68.

The shock contest will be held Thursday, October 23 and the standing contest on Friday, October 24. Each event will begin at 11:40 a. m. and will run for eighty minutes. Following the competitions, short programs, at which the champion huskers will be announced, will be held. Schooley and Winn represented Pickaway County in the state contest in Marion County, last year.

Winner and runner-up in the state standing contest will represent Ohio at a national contest to be held November 3 in LaSalle County, Illinois. There will be no national shock corn contest.

Ruby Keeler, Jolson's Former Wife, to Marry

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Ruby Keeler, screen actress and former wife of Al Jolson, will be married "in a short time" to John Lowe, Pasadena broker, it was disclosed today by her mother, Mrs. Ralph Keeler.

The dancing star and Lowe have been reported engaged for many months. Both are ardent golf fans and it was this mutual interest which first brought them together on local courses.

Jolson and Miss Keeler were divorced December 26, 1939, and at that time Jolson revealed a property settlement whereby Miss Keeler would receive $400 a week for life or $50,000 in a lump sum when and if she remarried.

They had been married nearly 11 years, and when they finally separated Jolson made several attempts to win Ruby back, but Ruby told friends she was "through with love." She charged Jolson with mental cruelty in her divorce action.

Jolson and Miss Keeler have an adopted son, Al Jr., whose custody is divided between them.

Governor Carries Fight For State's Rights To East; Talks in Gotham

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 14—Having pledged himself in a speech before the Ohio Society of New York to make a last ditch fight against federal seizure of more state's rights, Gov. John W. Bricker was headed back for Columbus today.

At this annual gathering of former Ohioans last night, the Governor said, in part:

"The state government was constantly harassed out of Washington on personnel matters in setting up civil service for employees in the Bureau of Unemployment compensation."

"Two probes in two years were put on us. At one time 14 men out of Washington were looking over the bureau books for three months. Nothing came of either of these political inquiries."

"Then on October 4, the truth was revealed and the purpose of the investigation apparent. The President was to ask Congress to federalize all of the 51 state and territorial departments. An attack of some kind on Ohio was necessary—maybe to get some votes in Congress from Ohio."

State Record Good

"The Ohio record was good, so the Hatch Act and civil service were to be used in Ohio. As long as I am governor of Ohio I will fight such a move. I will fight to protect the fund of $206,000,000 (in unemployment funds) for Ohio labor and employers."

More important than all this—I will fight to maintain local government in Ohio. We elected state officials who are responsible to the people of our state. If we do

CANADIAN DROPS HINT THAT NEW ACTION IS NEAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14—Commenting on Stockholm reports that a British expeditionary corps had landed at Archangel, Soviet far northern port, a Canadian military spokesman today declared that "National Defense headquarters has no information that any Canadians are included in the expedition to Archangel."

The spokesman refused to comment further, but the very wording of his denial was taken in some parliamentary quarters as a tacit acknowledgement that Britain might have sent a force to northern Russia, even though Canadian troops were not a part of it.

Yesterday's arrival in London, however, of Canadian National Defense Minister Leighton Ralston, Chief of Staff Major General Harry Crerar, and three other senior officers from Ottawa headquarters, to confer with the British high command is believed here to have considerable significance.

The impression in parliamentary circles is that many of the more than 100,000 Canadian troops now in Britain may figure shortly in some important operations being launched by the British command outside of the British Isles.

The plant, Jenkins said, will be known as the Buckeye Ordnance Works and will employ about 1,000 persons.

Jenkins said construction of the new plant would begin immediately and that the work would require 18 months. The plant will be operated by the Atmospheric Nitrogen Co., a subsidiary of the Allied Chemical Co.

South Point is 10 miles east of Ironton on State Route 52. The Norfolk & Western railroad passes through the village while across the river the Baltimore & Ohio is available.

Jolson and Miss Keeler were divorced December 26, 1939, and at that time Jolson revealed a property settlement whereby Miss Keeler would receive $400 a week for life or $50,000 in a lump sum when and if she remarried.

They had been married nearly 11 years, and when they finally separated Jolson made several attempts to win Ruby back, but Ruby told friends she was "through with love." She charged Jolson with mental cruelty in her divorce action.

Jolson and Miss Keeler have an adopted son, Al Jr., whose custody is divided between them.

POLICY IS DISCLOSED

Company's Men Now Under
Colors Not To Lose
Any Rights

Cooperation of the Container Corporation of America in the national effort to find work for men returning after serving in the Army was pledged Tuesday to R. L. Brehmer, Circleville replacement official who is working in conjunction with the Pickaway County Selective Service Board.

In a letter in response to a request for a statement of policy of the Container Corporation, attention of the local Selective Service Board is called to a copy of its published policy which is posted on all bulletin boards of the company.

Parts of this statement of policy cover the guarantee to reemploy persons either enlisting or inducted under the Selective Service Act without loss of seniority, insurance, or other benefits offered by the company. The specific paragraph in the "Company Policy" reads as follows:

"The Company guarantees that no person shall be inducted or so enlisted to his former position or to a position of like seniority, status and pay unless the Company's circumstances have so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to do so."

Further the statement of policy says:

"The Company guarantees that any person so restored to a position under paragraph (1) above shall be considered as having been on leave of absence during his training and service period, and shall be restored without loss of seniority and be entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits offered by the Company pursuant to established rules and practices of the Company in effect at the time such person was so inducted, or so enlisted."

The co-operation indicated by the above statement of policy is highly appreciated by the Selective Service Board and is an indication of the willingness of industry to help promote the defense efforts of the government to the fullest extent.

Governor Carries Fight For State's Rights To East; Talks in Gotham

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 14—Having pledged himself in a speech before the Ohio Society of New York to make a last ditch fight against federal seizure of more state's rights, Gov. John W. Bricker was headed back for Columbus today.

At this annual gathering of former Ohioans last night, the Governor said, in part:

"The state government was constantly harassed out of Washington on personnel matters in setting up civil service for employees in the Bureau of Unemployment compensation."

"Two probes in two years were put on us. At one time 14 men out of Washington were looking over the bureau books for three months. Nothing came of either of these political inquiries."

"Then on October 4, the truth was revealed and the purpose of the investigation apparent. The President was to ask Congress to federalize all of the 51 state and territorial departments. An attack of some kind on Ohio was necessary—maybe to get some votes in Congress from Ohio."

State Record Good

"The Ohio record was good, so the Hatch Act and civil service were to be used in Ohio. As long as I am governor of Ohio I will fight such a move. I will fight to protect the fund of $206,000,000 (in unemployment funds) for Ohio labor and employers."

More important than all this—I will fight to maintain local government in Ohio. We elected state officials who are responsible to the people of our state. If we do

CANADIAN DROPS HINT THAT NEW ACTION IS NEAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14—Commenting on Stockholm reports that a British expeditionary corps had landed at Archangel, Soviet far northern port, a Canadian military spokesman today declared that "National Defense headquarters has no information that any Canadians are included in the expedition to Archangel."

The spokesman refused to comment further, but the very wording of his denial was taken in some parliamentary quarters as a tacit acknowledgement that Britain might have sent a force to northern Russia, even though Canadian troops were not a part of it.

Yesterday's arrival in London, however, of Canadian National Defense Minister Leighton Ralston, Chief of Staff Major General Harry Crerar, and three other senior officers from Ottawa headquarters, to confer with the British high command is believed here to have considerable significance.

The impression in parliamentary circles is that many of the more than 100,000 Canadian troops now in Britain may figure shortly in some important operations being launched by the British command outside of the British Isles.

Rep. Jenkins Says South
Point Selected For Factory Site

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Rep. Thomas Jenkins, Ironton, O., Republican, said today the War Department had approved South Point, O., near Ironton, as the site for a $20,000,000 plant for the manufacture of ammonia and other chemicals.

The plant, Jenkins said, will be known as the Buckeye Ordnance Works and will employ about 1,000 persons.

Jenkins said construction of the new plant would begin immediately and that the work would require 18 months. The plant will be operated by the Atmospheric Nitrogen Co., a subsidiary of the Allied Chemical Co.

South Point is 10 miles east of Ironton on State Route 52. The Norfolk & Western railroad passes through the village while across the river the Baltimore & Ohio is available.

CONQUEST AND CORRUPTION

An evil force is at work in Germany, worse than military defeat. It is the moral disintegration that comes from the Nazi method of conquest. A report made by Adolf A. Berle Jr., in an address to the Harvard Graduate School of Business, shows painfully how the loss of public morality involved in a war of conquest is accompanied by a corresponding loss of private morality. While the state grabs what it wants, individuals do likewise.

Every bit of information reaching him, says Mr. Berle, "shows the growing stream of corruption which has entered the Nazi-controlled life in Germany."

"The little politicians have minor licenses to loot—the loot of Jewish victims or other refugees. The great politicians have their cut in practically every business within the conquered area. These, as well as part of the so-called guaranteed profits of German business men, roll in to swell the huge fortunes of Nazi leaders. Nothing is too small to escape attention. Shops in conquered Paris have been asked to accept a German partner and later to hand over their names, their reputations and their future into the hands of a military conqueror.

"Eventually, of course, this crookedness will destroy the German machine and everything in it. But it behooves us to use every effort lest it destroy the world, and ourselves with it, before it finally crashes."

LIBRARY PROGRESS

THE most modern library buildings spreading over the country have the latest in lighting fixtures. Entrance doors are at sidewalk level. Club rooms are provided for community uses. A special room for pages—the boys who shelve books, fill inkwells, run errands and make themselves generally useful—is apt to be included. Books are taken for granted in the reports—other public services are emphasized.

It's a long road back to the days when the Sunday School Library and Police Gazette in the barbershop offered the only public reading. The shelf of highly moral books about pious little girls and go-getter boys who had small connection with reality seems merely humorous today. But the book-lending idea was an important milestone, and the habit of reading for interest and pleasure was encouraged.

The compulsory education idea persisted through long years of library growth. Many people remember when they might take but two books at a time, only one of them fiction. Now in the open shelf libraries readers may browse at will and take out all the books they can carry. The

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE... Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up reluctantly, for effects of the Pumpkin Show linger on. It was a great show, however. Always look forward to it and always am glad when the lights go out at midnight Saturday. Made a little money this year, the show. And business in the village was better than generally is true during the week. Merchants for the most part do not expect to do much, and they don't. Many folk think that because of the throngs that merchants really clean house. Well, the visitors come to see the shows, enjoy the rides, meet friends. They are not here to shop at all, but many of them visit the stores with an eye to future purchases. Congratulations to the Pumpkin Show committee for a successful celebration.

Chatted with Renick Dunlap, who saw and was amazed by the Ohio State and U. S. C. game on the Coast. Rode out on the same train with Mrs. Paul Brown and said that the coach's wife was considerably worried, but hid the fact fairly well. Before the season started Renick in a chat with Coach Brown declared that he believed State's greatest weakness of recent years was in the tackling and blocking departments. "Teach them to block and tackle," he told Brown and you will go someplace. After the West Coast game Brown asked: "Well, did they block and tackle to suit you?" and the reply was very much in the affirmative.

Back in the late eighties, more than a half century ago, a Circleville citizen left the village, and his departure was mourned by several merchants who carried his name in their account books. Time marched on and the early resident was completely forgotten. But he did not forget Circleville. It was Friday of Pumpkin Show week when an old man walked into the Brunner jewelry store and announced his name which meant absolutely nothing to Tom Brunner. "I have a little account here," the visitor said. Tom scanned the books, but found no charge, no such name. "I think you are mistaken," the man was told. "No, I'm not," he declared. "The charge was made either in 1887 or 1888 and it was for $4.50. I left town without paying it and this is the first time I have been back since." Tom took the man home, looking at the old man in amazement. "I owe some others in this town, too," said the visitor, "and if I can find them I will pay them. Good Pumpkin Show you are having here, bub. Like it very much. Came here to save my conscience and I am having a right good time doing it."

In the evening did attend the Kiwanis Club meeting, hearing an interesting talk on what communities must do if ever world problems are solved. A lot of sense to statements such as that we have been looking at too broad a picture. The unemployment picture, for instance. Obtaining jobs for 11,000,000 men is quite a task, a seemingly impossible one, but each community striving to obtain some sort of employment for its worthies is not an impossible undertaking. And the moral question, too. We contribute toward the problem and could contribute toward its solution by doing what we should do at home. We got into this mess because a lot of communities, small and large, tolerated conditions they should have corrected. Now, a definite movement is under way to make some changes, and it looks as though they would be made. It is high time, most folk think.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

NAVY MAY BRING IN "PIRATES"

WASHINGTON—Don't be surprised if a U. S. warship disembarks a load of Nazi sailors and turns them over to the Justice Department to be tried on charges of "piracy".

It is even possible that in the "haul" may be an armed Nazi raider or two that had been operating down Brazil way.

Anything may happen these eventful days since the President enunciated U. S. determination to maintain freedom of the seas, and branded Nazi submarines and surface raiders in American waters as "pirates." Armed Nazi ships are prowling American waters and the U. S. Navy has its orders.

It can be revealed that neither the Justice nor War Department would be surprised if they had some "pirate" seamen and "pirate" craft to deal with soon. Both have been quietly studying for a week the law and precedents concerning such an eventuality.

The War Department enters the picture because under the law all war prisoners landed on U. S. soil come under the custody of the Army. However, the U. S. is not at war, so there is doubt over the Army's jurisdiction.

No final decision has been reached, but the consensus of the legal experts is that any such "pirates" should be turned over to the Justice Department.

One suggested procedure is that the Nazis be landed at a U. S. port and then jailed by the Justice Department as aliens without passports. But most of the legal authorities contend that the Nazis should be dealt with squarely as buccaneers.

A highly significant feature of these undercover deliberations is that the Justice and War Department were directed to make their legal studies quickly.

NOTE: Last week an important War Department official suggested to a Navy official that the Navy give the Army advance notice of any captives that might have to be taken over. The instant reply was, "Hell, we already have some." But when pressed for details, the Navy man shut up.

DUCCAL CCC VISIT

On his return trip to Washington the Duke of Windsor plans to visit a nearby CCC camp with the idea of establishing a similar one in the Bahamas. The camp selected for his visit will probably be one of the negro units, as the Bahamas population is largely negro.

J. J. McEntee, CCC Director, was much impressed with the Duke's keen interest when they discussed the CCC in Washington last month. The Duke said he regarded—

DIET AND HEALTH

Long Life Very Often Traceable to Heredity

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"We are all omnibuses in which our ancestors ride, and every now and then one of them sticks his head out and embarrasses us," so averred that eminent Boston physician, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Of course they don't always embarrass us. Sometimes we are mighty proud of them. A newspaper clipping from Oregon tells of a human omnibus with some very valuable passengers. "Halfway, Ore., July 31.—Frank Louison, 77, is put out because the state ruled he was too old to have his driver's license renewed without taking a special test.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Why, I'm a young man in our family," Louison complained. "He explained that a brother, 82, pilots his own plane in Alaska; his mother did all of her work until she died at 98; his father died at 100, and his immediate grandparents at 103, 109, 119, and 123 years respectively."

Longevity Usually Inherited
That certainly tends to support my old contention that if you are aiming at longevity, you should begin with your grandparents. People are always asking doctors what kind of diets and what other things they should do to live to an old age. My observation is that, except in extreme cases of lack of moderation, it makes very little difference what you do after 50.

The life force gave you a shove when you were born, and just how much of a shove determines the days of your years.

Mr. Louison, who wanted his license renewed, probably exaggerated just a teeny little bit on the members of his family who he claimed lived to be 119 and 123. One hundred years is the upper limit of the span of human life, according to our greatest medical statistician, the late Dr. Raymond Pearl.

Mistake in Birth Record
The claim of Thomas Parr, who was supposed to be 152 when he died, and Henry Jenkins, who swam a river at the age of 100, seventy-nine years before he died, have been shown to be due to mistakes in the record of their dates of birth.

Several years ago I began collecting books of advice on how to live to a ripe old age. One is by that reputedly wise man, Lord Bacon. They are, however, a melancholy collection. Most of the authors of works on longevity die young. The only exception was an Italian, Luigi Carnaro; he advised a system of living to promote longevity and he lived to be ninety himself. But he was over 75 when he began to advise on how to live long.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
E. J. B.: "Is it harmful for anyone with asthma to eat pork or smoked meats or fish?"

Answer: A person with asthma may be sensitive to any of these substances, but it is unusual. The only way to find out is to try them one at a time, and eat nothing else; if no asthma comes on for five hours after eating one of them, they are safe.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

WHY DID pleasure make her feel embarrassed?

Hallie's gaze fell before the kindly scrutiny of her brother-in-law. Her tone was a little uneven when she spoke:

"So we meet like this, Win. I didn't want it to be an accidental meeting. From the beginning I've wanted to know you."

"I felt that in your letters. They were very nice letters."

Hallie didn't know how to go on; it would be letting Eric down to say that he hadn't wanted them to meet. She realized suddenly that there was nothing more for Eric to fear. Now she knew about Sheila. Really knew.

She said, "We've been on sort of a merry-go-round, living here and there."

"Yes, I know." The way he said it made her feel that he did know all about them. "Do you like living in the country?"

"Oh, yes," she said loyally. "I grew up in a small town, but I think it is lonely for Eric."

"If Eric ever changes his mind, there's a place for him in East Lynbrook."

"Tell me about East Lynbrook. I'd like to know what it's like."

He told her about the town, sketching word pictures of the village of the Adams house which had been built by his great-grandfather. He had just said, "I want you and Eric to come and visit me whenever you can," when Louise came in.

She had heard their voices as she entered and she came to the living room door saying, "Didn't I tell you he was just the big brother any girl would like to have?"

That same embarrassment she had felt a few minutes before swept over Hallie and she said, "We've been getting acquainted."

"So I see. The maid tells me that Eric is coming by, too."

For a moment, Hallie had forgotten that. Now she felt apprehensive. Eric would think that this meeting had been pre-arranged. Worse, Eric might not take it graciously.

When she heard his ring, her eyes went anxiously to the door, awaiting his entrance.

The brothers looked at each other for a moment without speaking. Then they were shaking hands and Eric was saying, "Nice to see you, old man."

"Great!" Win said, "You're looking fine."

Eric gave his wife a proud, smiling glance. "My wife takes very good care of me. How's the bank?"

"Steady," Win answered.

"Just see that it keeps that way. I may wind up there some day."

How's the tooth, honey?"

Hallie said, "All right . . . Eric, do you really mean that you might take up Win's offer and work in the bank?"

Eric laughed easily. "When there isn't any more theater."

Hallie looked at Win. "He's hopeless," she said.

"No, only young," Win said. He turned to Eric, "What are you doing these days?"

"Radio," Eric told him. "It's the thing now. Pays good money."

Hallie thought of the 50-cent piece in her purse—"and it's steady."

"You're doing well then?"

Hallie wished that Eric wouldn't lie to Win, wished that he wasn't so easily able to look like the cat that swallowed the canary. It was carrying the act too far to look so proud and self-satisfied.

"Fairly," Eric said at last. "Signed a nice little contract today."

Hallie tried not to give herself away, but she gave a little start. Now, Eric had done it! She'd been thinking she would ask Win to come back to the country with them, but she couldn't show him their poverty in the face of Eric's lie.

"That's great!" Win said heartily.

"Yeah, I'm going to do some announcing for Consolidated Broadcasting."

Louise said, "No!"

"Got the contract somewhere here in my pocket," Eric tried hard to be casual about it, pretending to search his pockets when he knew exactly which one it was in. He found it at last, and showed them the folded sheet. He didn't open it before tossing it to Hallie.

Hallie opened it with a prayer on her lips. She went through the legal phraseology hastily, picking out the two intelligible things that told her Eric was engaged for six months at a salary of $45 a week.

Eric's glance caught hers before she could speak. She said, "That's splendid, dear."

Eric retrieved the contract and put it back in his pocket.

"It doesn't pay a fortune—yet," he said. "But it's more than I'd make as a bank clerk."

He shot a glance that was pure defiance at Win.

Hallie, following the glance, thought: How much they are alike, yet not alike. There was the same bone structure of the tall, loosely knit bodies, the same broad facial bones, the same hair line that Hallie loved. But the eyes and the mouths were different. It wasn't only that Win's face was older; there were qualities in his generous mouth, his steady eyes that Eric did not have. Hallie found herself wondering if one day she would find that steadiness written in Eric's eyes—and doubting it.

Louise said, "Will you be staying on in the country?"

Eric shook his head. "We'll find a place in town. My hours will be irregular. It would be too lonesome in the country for Hallie. She's been an awfully good scout about it, but it hasn't been easy for her. I want her to have some fun now."

"I haven't minded it," Hallie said.

"You mean you haven't kicked about it," Eric said on a soft note.

"She doesn't look like the sort of a girl who would do much kicking." It was Win who said that.

"She isn't," Louise contributed.

Hallie said, "Really! Oughtn't I get a medal or something?"

"You ought to get lots better than I've given you, honey, but you'll have the things I promised you yet."

Hallie thought they ought to change the subject; she wasn't quite sure she knew why. There was another reason, she felt, quite apart from her natural embarrassment.

But Eric was not done with it. He was looking at Win and he was saying, "You don't know what a brick Hallie's been. Win. We haven't always been in the chips, but she's taken it like a soldier."

"Eric, please!" Hallie protested.

"We haven't always had chips for her. And here he was protesting it publicly—and she didn't want him to. It embarrassed her. There was a false note about it."

She said, "Eric, Win has invited us for a visit."

She was quite certain that he'd turn it down. He had a good excuse now.

Eric said, "Well! I don't start until the first of February. It's only the twentieth now. What do you say, Hallie? Like to see the old place? We could get in some skiing and skating. How about it, Win? My skis still in the attic?"

Hallie felt a wave of anticipation surge through her being. And she felt Win's quiet gaze upon her. She lifted hers to meet it.

"I want very much to come," she said to him.

CONQUEST AND CORRUPTION

AN evil force is at work in Germany, worse than military defeat. It is the moral disintegration that comes from the Nazi method of conquest. A report made by Adolf A. Berle Jr., in an address to the Harvard Graduate School of Business, shows painfully how the loss of public morality involved in a war of conquest is accompanied by a corresponding loss of private morality. While the state grabs what it wants, individuals do likewise.

Every bit of information reaching him, says Mr. Berle, "shows the growing stream of corruption which has entered the Nazi-controlled life in Germany."

"The little politicians have minor licenses to loot—the loot of Jewish victims or other refugees. The great politicians have their cut in practically every business within the conquered area. These, as well as part of the so-called guaranteed profits of German business men, roll in to swell the huge fortunes of Nazi leaders. Nothing is too small to escape attention. Shops in conquered Paris have been asked to accept a German partner and later to hand over their names, their reputations and their future into the hands of a military conqueror.

"Eventually, of course, this crookedness will destroy the German machine and everything in it. But it behooves us to use every effort lest it destroy the world, and ourselves with it, before it finally crashes."

LIBRARY PROGRESS

THE most modern library buildings spreading over the country have the latest in lighting fixtures. Entrance doors are at sidewalk level. Club rooms are provided for community uses. A special room for pages—the boys who shelve books, fill inkwells, run errands and make themselves generally useful—is apt to be included. Books are taken for granted in the reports—other public services are emphasized.

It's a long road back to the days when the Sunday School Library and Police Gazette in the barbershop offered the only public reading. The shelf of highly moral books about pious little girls and go-getter boys who had small connection with reality seems merely humorous today. But the book-lending idea was an important milestone, and the habit of reading for interest and pleasure was encouraged.

The compulsory education idea persisted through long years of library growth. Many people remember when they might take but two books at a time, only one of them fiction. Now in the open shelf libraries readers may browse at will and take out all the books they can carry. The

Up reluctantly, for effects of the Pumpkin Show linger on. It was a great show, however. Always look forward to it and always am glad when the lights go out at midnight Saturday. Made a little money this year, the show. And business in the village was better than generally is true during the week. Merchants for the most part do not expect to do much, and they don't. Many folk think that because of the throngs that merchants really clean house. Well, the visitors come to see the shows, enjoy the rides, meet friends. They are not here to shop at all, but many of them visit the stores with an eye to future purchases. Congratulations to the Pumpkin Show committee for a successful celebration.

Chatted with Renick Dunlap, who saw and was amazed by the Ohio State and U. S. C. game on the Coast. Rode out on the same train with Mrs. Paul Brown and said that the coach's wife was considerably worried, but hid the fact fairly well. Before the season started Renick in a chat with Coach Brown declares that he believed State's greatest weakness of recent years was in the tackling and blocking departments. "Teach them to block and tackle," he told Brown and you will go someplace. After the West Coast game Brown asked: "Well, did they block and tackle to suit you?" and the reply was very much in the affirmative.

Back in the late eighties, more than a half century ago, a Circleville citizen left the village, and his departure was mourned by several merchants who carried his name in their account books. Time marched on and the early resident was completely forgotten. But he did not forget Circleville. It was Friday of Pumpkin Show week when an old man walked into the Brunner jewelry store and announced his name which meant absolutely nothing to Tom Brunner. "I have a little account here," the visitor said. Tom scanned the books, but found no charge, no such name. "I think you are mistaken," the man was told. "No, I'm not," he declared. "The charge was made either in 1887 or 1888 and it was for $4.50. I left town without paying it and this is the first time I have been back since." Tom took the money looking at the old man

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

NAVY MAY BRING IN "PIRATES"

WASHINGTON—Don't be surprised if a U. S. warship disembarks a load of Nazi sailors and turns them over to the Justice Department to be tried on charges of "piracy."

It is even possible that in the "haul" may be an armed Nazi raider or two that had been operating down Brazil way.

Anything may happen these eventful days since the President enunciated U. S. determination to maintain freedom of the seas, and branded Nazi submarines and surface raiders in American water as "pirates." Armed Nazi ships are prowling American waters and the U. S. Navy has its orders.

It can be revealed that neither the Justice nor War Department would be surprised if they had some "pirate" seamen and "pirate" craft to deal with soon. Both have been quietly studying for a week the law and precedents concerning such an eventuality.

The War Department enters the picture because under the law all war prisoners landed on U. S. soil come under the custody of the Army. However, the U. S. is not at war, so there is doubt over the Army's jurisdiction.

No final decision has been reached, but the consensus of the legal experts is that any such "pirates" should be turned over to the Justice Department.

One suggested procedure is that the Nazis be landed at a U. S. port and then jailed by the Justice Department as aliens without passports. But most of the legal authorities contend that the Nazis should be dealt with squarely as buccaneers.

A highly significant feature of these undercover deliberations is that the Justice and War Department were directed to make their legal studies quickly.

NOTE: Last week an important War Department official suggested to a Navy official that the Navy give the Army advance notice of any captives that might have to be taken over. The instant reply was, "Hell, we already have some." But when pressed for details, the Navy man shut up.

On his return trip to Washington the Duke of Windsor plans to visit a nearby CCC camp with the idea of establishing a similar one in the Bahamas. The camp selected for his visit will probably be one of the negro units, as the Bahamas population is largely negro.

In short, the library has become a great center of community life. It is strong and growing fast.

In amazement. "I owe some others in this town, too," said the visitor, "and if I can find them I will pay them. Good Pumpkin Show you are having here, bub. Like it very much. Came here to save my conscience and I am having a right good time doing it."

In the evening did attend the Kiwanis Club meeting, hearing an interesting talk on what communities must do if ever world problems are solved. A lot of sense to statements such as that we have been looking at too broad a picture. The unemployment picture, for instance. Obtaining jobs for 11,000,000 men is quite a task, a seemingly impossible one, but each community striving to obtain some sort of employment for its worthies is not an impossible undertaking. And the moral question, too. We contribute toward the problem and could contribute toward its solution by doing what we should do at home. We got into this mess because a lot of communities, small and large, tolerated conditions they should have corrected. Now, a definite movement is under way to make some changes, and it looks as though they would be made. It is high time, most folk think.

DIET AND HEALTH

Long Life Very Often Traceable to Heredity

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"We are all omnibuses in which our ancestors ride, and every now and then one of them sticks his head out and embarrasses us," so averred that eminent Boston physician, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Of course they don't always embarrass us. Sometimes we are mighty proud of them. A newspaper clipping from Oregon tells of a human omnibus with some very valuable passengers:

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Halfway, Ore., July 31—Frank Louson, 77, is put out because the state rule he was too old to have his driver's license renewed without taking a special test.

"Why, I'm a young man in our family," Louson complained. "He explained that a brother, 82, pilots his own plane in Alaska; his mother died at all of her work until she died at 98; his father died at 100, and his immediate grandparents at 103, 109, 119, and 123 years respectively."

Longevity Usually Inherited

That certainly tends to support my old contention that if you are aiming at longevity, you should begin with your grandparents. People are always asking doctors what kind of diets and what other things they should do to live to an old age. My observation is that, except in extreme cases of lack of moderation, it makes very little difference what you do after 50. The life force gave you a shove when you were born, and just how much of a shove determines the days of your years.

Mr. Louson, who wanted his license renewed, probably exaggerated just a teeny little bit on the members of his family who he claimed lived to be 119 and 123. One hundred years is the upper limit of the span of human life, according to our greatest medical statistician, the late Dr. Raymond Pearl.

Mistake in Birth Record

The claim of Thomas Parr, who was supposed to be 162 when he died, and Henry Jenkins, who swam a river at the age of 109, seventy-nine years before he died, have been shown to be due to mistakes in the record of their dates of birth.

Several years ago I began collecting books of advice on how to live to a ripe old age. One is by that reputedly wise man, Lord Bacon. They are, however, a melancholy collection. Most of the authors of works on longevity die young. The only exception was an Italian, Luigi Carnaro; he advised a system of living to promote longevity and he lived to be ninety himself. But he was over 75 when he began to advise on how to live long.

E. J. B.: "Is it harmful for anyone with asthma to eat pork or smoked meats or fish?"

Answer: A person with asthma may be sensitive to any of these substances, but it is unusual. The only way to find out is to try them one at a time, and eat nothing else; if no asthma comes on for five hours after eating one of them, they are safe.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

WHY DID pleasure make her feel embarrassed?

Hallie's gaze fell before the kindly scrutiny of her brother-in-law.

Her tone was a little uneven when she spoke:

"So we meet like this, Win. I didn't want it to be an accidental meeting. From the beginning I've wanted to know you."

"I felt that in your letters. They were very nice letters."

Hallie didn't know how to go on; it would be letting Eric down to say that he hadn't wanted them to meet. She realized suddenly that there was nothing more for Eric to fear. Now she knew about Sheila. Really knew.

She said, "We've been on sort of a merry-go-round, living here and there."

"Yes, I know." The way he said it made her feel that he did know all about them. "Do you like living in the country?"

"Oh, yes," she said loyally. "I grew up in a small town, but I think it is lonely for Eric."

"If Eric ever changes his mind, there's a place for him in East Lynbrook."

"Tell me about East Lynbrook. I'd like to know what it's like."

He told her about the town, sketching word pictures of the village, of the Adams house which had been built by his great-grandfather. He had just said, "I want you and Eric to come and visit me whenever you can," when Louise came in.

She had heard their voices as she entered and she came to the living room door saying, "Didn't I tell you he was just the big brother any girl would like to have?"

That same embarrassment she had felt a few minutes before swept over Hallie and she said, "We've been getting acquainted."

"So I see. The maid tells me that Eric is coming by, too."

For a moment, Hallie had forgotten that. Now she felt apprehensive. Eric would think that this meeting had been pre-arranged. Worse, Eric might not take it graciously.

When she heard his ring, her eyes went anxiously to the door, awaiting his entrance.

The brothers looked at each other for a moment without speaking. Then they were shaking hands and Eric was saying, "Nice to see you, old man."

"Great!" Win said, "You're looking fit."

Eric gave his wife a proud, smiling glance. "My wife takes very good care of me. How's the bank?"

"Steady," Win answered.

"Just see that it keeps that way. I may wind up there some day."

How's the tooth, honey?"

Hallie said, "All right. . . . Eric, do you really mean that you might take up Win's offer and work in the bank?"

Eric laughed easily. "When there isn't any more theater."

Hallie looked at Win. "He's hopeless," she said.

"No, only young," Win said. He turned to Eric. "What are you doing these days?"

"Radio," Eric told him. "It's the thing now. Pays good money."

Hallie thought of the 50-cent piece in her purse—"and it's steady."

"You're doing well then?"

Hallie wished that Eric wouldn't lie to Win, wished that he wasn't so easily able to look like the cat that swallowed the canary. It was carrying the act too far to look so proud and self-satisfied.

"Fairly," Eric said at last. "Signed a nice little contract today."

Hallie tried not to give herself away, but she gave a little start. Now, Eric had done it! She'd been thinking she would ask Win to come back to the country with them, but she couldn't show him their poverty in the face of Eric's lie.

"That's great!" Win said heartily.

"Yeah, I'm going to do some announcing for Consolidated Broadcasting."

Louise said, "No!"

"Got the contract somewhere here in my pocket," Eric tried hard to be casual about it, pretending to search his pockets when he knew exactly which one it was in. He found it at last, and showed them the folded sheet. He didn't open it before tossing it to Hallie.

Hallie opened it with a prayer on her lips. She went through the legal phraseology hastily, picking out the two intelligible things that told her Eric was engaged for six months at a salary of $45 a week.

Eric's glance caught hers before she could speak. She said, "That's splendid, dear."

Eric retrieved the contract and put it back in his pocket.

"It doesn't pay a fortune—yet," he said. "But it's more than I'd make as a bank clerk."

He shot a glance that was pure defiance at Win.

Hallie, following the glance, thought: How much they are alike, yet not alike. There was the same bone structure of their tall, loosely knit bodies, the same broad facial bones, the same hair line that Hallie loved. But the eyes and the mouths were different. It wasn't only that Win's face was older; there were qualities in his generous mouth, his steady eyes that Eric did not have. Hallie found herself wondering if one day she would find

But Eric was not done with it. He was looking at Win and he was saying, "You don't know what a brick Hallie's been, Win. We haven't always been in the chips, but she's taken it like a soldier."

"Eric, please!" Hallie protested.

"We haven't always had chips. Eric was repeating, his eyes still on his brother, "but I guess it doesn't matter when two people feel the way Hallie and I do about each other."

There was something very strange about Eric's talking that way, Hallie felt, but she couldn't imagine what it was. He was so anxious for Win to know their marriage was a happy one.

Was it? That moment, Hallie thought it was. For months now she had been doubting Eric's feeling for her. And here he was protesting it publicly—and she didn't want him to embarrass her. There was a false note about it.

She said, "Eric, Win has invited us for a visit."

She was quite certain that he'd turn it down. He had a good excuse now.

Eric said, "Sweet! I don't start until the first of February. It's only the twentieth now. What do you say, Hallie? Like to see the old place? We could get in some skiing and skating. How about it, Win? My skis still in the attic?"

Hallie felt a wave of anticipation surge through her being. And she felt Win's quiet gaze upon her. She lifted hers to meet it.

Soup Accessories to Enhance Simple Recipes Suggested in New Booklet

A clever and flavorsome garnish for your Cream of Corn Soup is fluffy, crisp popcorn. There's an entire section on accessories and garnishes in the new Soup Cookbooklet.

A delicious soup is even more delicious and certain ymore attractive if it is cleverly garnished and accompanied by tasty accessories. The latest Herald Cookbooklet on Soups, presents an entire section of recipes for beautiful little accessories such as toasted animals; balls of crackers, egg, cheese, marrow, rice, noodles, potatoes or spinach; stars of noodle dough; croutons cut or rolled; toast and cheese sticks; dumplings; floats; custards and force-meats.

The simplest consommé becomes an artistic creation with the right kind of a fancy garnish—a dish for the most elaborate dinner party.

Here are two of the suggestions from the Soup Book that you can try until you get your own copy:

Cheese Balls
 ¼ cup butter Dash paprika
 ½ cup boiling 3 eggs
 water ¼ cup grated
 ¼ cup flour American
 ¼ teaspoon salt cheese
 Dash cayenne

Combine butter and water, cook for 2 minutes, add flour and seasonings and boil until mixture forms a mass in the center of the pan. Cool slightly, add unbeaten eggs 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Add cheese and drop from a teaspoon into hot fat. Drain and serve immediately. Makes 2½ dozen balls.

Italian Potato Dumplings
 1 cup mashed potatoes 2 tablespoons grated
 1½ tablespoons Parmesan
 olive or salad cheese oil Dash Nutmeg
 1 egg yolk ¼ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients. Mix thoroughly; sprinkle flour on pastry board and place long strips (about ½ inch in diameter) of the potato mixture on it. Roll strips carefully in flour, cut into ½ inch pieces and round into balls. Fry in hot deep fat (365 deg. to 380 deg. F.) until brown, drain well and serve in very hot beef or veal broth. Serves 6.

In addition to this wonderful section on soup accessories, there are 250 delicious soup recipes of all varieties. There are suggestions for meat, vegetable, creamed, fish, poultry, pea, bean, lentil, chilled, jellied and jiffy soups; chowders, bisques and purees.

The first seven Cookbooklets are now on sale. They may be obtained by presenting ten cents for each at any of these stores: North End Market, Griffith & Martin, Weiler's Grocery, Brink's Market, Harpster & Yost Hardware, Glitt's Food Market, Blue & White Malted Milk, Wallace Bakery, Steele's Produce, R. & R. Bob Householder, former Lancaster High School football star, is out of action at Tusculum College, Tennessee, suffering from a broken hand. Householder plays fullback on the second team.

Black Team Expects Bremen To Test Tigers

Circleville High Tigers face a strong foe Friday evening when Bremen's Oilers, victors over the Red and Black in the last several years, come to town to do battle on the gridiron. The Oilers, according to Coach Roy Black who saw them play last week, are big, especially in the line, they stress smashes and a strong passing offensive.

Hebron was Bremen's victim last week, 13-0, while Pataskala was edged 12-6 the week prior to that. Roseville was a victim 19-0, Logan being the only team to gain an edge, the Hocking Countians knocking off a 27-0 margin in the season's opener.

Toughest boy in the Bremen line is Rowles, 190 pound right tackle, who is serving his fourth year in that position. Hubbard at left end is another veteran and is on the receiving end of most of the aerials which are tossed by Driver, who plays fullback. Other members of the backfield are Sturm at quarterback and Morris and Linville at the halves.

Coach Black worked his boys for two and one-half hours Monday evening, the drill starting at 4 o'clock and lasting until 6:30. Calisthenics took up some time, and a long drill on offensive assignments was engaged in.

The blocking and tackling dummies were hauled to the field and every member of the squad took a smack at them.

MEADE FUTURE UP TO INQUIRY BY COMMISSION
By Jack Mahon
NEW YORK, Oct. 14—The riding future of dashing Don Meade, the Peck's bad boy of racing, is in the hands of the New York State Racing Commission.
Alarmed by published reports that playboy Don had bet $300 against his own mount in a race at Jamaica Track here last Tuesday, Chairman Herbert Bayard Swope ordered an investigation and today is to read the report of Chief Steward Marshall Cassidy, who conducted it. If the commission should find Meade guilty of any infractions he is liable to a life suspension.
Meade has emphatically denied the allegations and according to Mr. Cassidy his committee found no evidence to substantiate the report. Cassidy told the writer: "We have called Don Meade before us for an explanation of an article in a New York newspaper which said Meade had bet $500 on Tonypan in a race in which Meade rode another mount. Meade emphatically denied it."
Cassidy added that he had checked with Meade's agent and the detective agency which surveys the activities of the jockeys, but uncovered no evidence which would substantiate the story.
"We will present our report to Mr. Swope today," continued Cassidy. "I think he, and possibly Mr. Meade, might ask the author of the article for more facts on the case."

KIMBROUGH AND TOM HARMON TO PLAY PRO BALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—With the two biggest college football stars of the last year, Tommy Harmon and John Kimbrough signed up for a joint appearance, and as possible members of the New York Americans football team for the remainder of the season, William Cox, youthful new president of the club, looked forward most optimistically today to a complete and lasting re-organization of the team and the American Professional Football League.
"We hope to use Kimbrough and Harmon as a nucleus around which to build the New York Americans and sell the possibility of two leagues to New York fans," said Cox.
He revealed that he is paying Kimbrough, former Texas A & M. all-America $1,500 per game to play the last four for the American, beginning with an engagement against the Columbus Bulls at the Yankee Stadium Sunday.
"Harmon has agreed to play Sunday and has verbally agreed to complete the season with us if he can work out an agreement with his radio station and broadcast sponsors back in Detroit," added Cox.
Cox said attendance has picked up around the league which is operating with only five teams this year that it had better financial backing than at any time in its erratic history. Cox, a lumber man, has three lawyers and a broker associated with him in operating the new franchise.

BROWN LOOKING FOR PURDUE TO JUGGLE ATTACK

Changes In Offensive Of Boilermakers Likely; 72,000 To See Tilt

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—Coach Paul Brown prepared his Ohio State football team today for an entirely new offensive display expected to be launched by Coach Mal Edvard of Purdue in Ohio stadium Saturday.

Purdue has scored only one touchdown in two games and Brown and his aides are fearful that the idleness enjoyed by the Boilermakers last week end will make the difference between the fair team that, Purdue has been and the good team Purdue has capabilities of being.

Meanwhile, tickets sales for the Western Conference opener Saturday were reported booming and it was estimated that, the weather being good, a capacity crowd of 72,000 may see the contest.

Last year, Ohio State defeated Purdue in the stadium, 17 to 14, on a last minute field goal and the Boilermakers are expected to be out for revenge, especially in view of the fact the goal was kicked by Charley Maag, who later was found to have been an illegal player on the field, having used his allotted number of game re-entries.

Yesterday, Brown drilled his charges long and hard on offense alone. Only "hospital" case reported is Dick Zimmerman, a guard whose twisted leg is not responding to treatment.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 14—Coach Mal Edvard of Purdue experimented with several backfield combinations today to find a replacement for Johnny Galvin, veteran halfback, who will miss the Boilermakers' meeting with unbeaten Ohio State this Saturday. Galvin suffered a cracked cheek bone in a scrimmage Saturday and is feared lost to the team for several weeks.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14—Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern concentrated on line play today as he prepared the Wildcats for Saturday's battle with Michigan. The Wildcat line often was outcharged last week by Wisconsin, the coach pointed out, and this might be fatal against as rugged an aggregation as the Wolverines.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 14—Although their injuries were not regarded as serious, First Stringers Bob Sweiger, right halfback, and Urban Odson, left tackle, will be kept out of Minnesota's lineup against Pittsburgh Saturday, coaches indicated today. Both were shaken up during last week's victory over Illinois.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 14—A light workout was carded for the Notre Dame varsity today, with indications the squad will be at full strength for the game in Pittsburgh Saturday with Carnegie Tech. The undefeated Irish are heavily favored over the Smoky City eleven.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 14—Coach Fritz Crisler today handed the University of Michigan Wolverines a whole new flock of plays in preparation for Saturday's tilt in Evanston with Northwestern. Both Big Ten schools are undefeated.

EZ CHARLES KNOCKS OUT MANGINI IN FIRST ROUND

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—Pat Mangini, Philadelphia middleweight, was in a Cincinnati hospital today for observation following his first-round knockout by Ezzard Charles, of Cincinnati, last night.

Physicians said Mangini possibly received a brain concussion and probably would remain in the hospital for "a couple of days." Mangini was counted out after two minutes and 50 seconds of what was scheduled as a 10-round bout.

Black Expects Bremen Team To Test Tigers

Circleville High Tigers face a strong foe Friday evening when Bremen's Oilers, victors over the Red and Black in the last several years, come to town to do battle on the gridiron. Smallwood Ready Dud Smallwood, who has moved up to first string fullback since Normie Anderson suffered a knee injury, appeared ready for action. Smallwood injured his shoulder in the first period of the Greenfield game, but the injury turned out to be nothing serious.

All other members of the varsity look to be in good condition, despite the fact that Monday's drill was a little ragged. Most of the boys have not practiced since the early part of last week, Pumpkin Show providing a vacation. Another long workout is expected Tuesday evening, with still another Wednesday. Thursday will bring the usual signal drill, and Friday the game.

Because of the Tigers' splendid showing so far this season with West Jefferson and Hillsboro pushed into the victory column and Greenfield deadlocked, it is indicated that a capacity crowd will see the Bremen game.

SAYRE CALLS FOR REVIVAL OF INTEREST IN COMMUNITY TASKS

TALK STRESSES NEED FOR LOCAL PROBLEM STUDY

Defense Councilmen Meet With Kiwanians, Hear Interesting Talk

GUIDANCE IS DISCUSSED

Major Questions Must Be Decided; Ravenna, Kent Activity Cited

Circleville civic leaders, including members of the Circleville Council for National Defense and Kiwanians, heard an excellent address Monday evening by Harrison M. Sayre of Columbus, chairman of the Ohio Committee for Democracy.

Mr. Sayre, head of the American Education Press, has made a comprehensive study of world conditions, their background and their solution, and he informed his audience that the greatest need apparent today is a revival of interest in community affairs on the part of local people.

"Citizen" of our various communities," he said, "must with courage, determination and fearlessness delve into local problems and study them until they are solved."

Education Program Needed

He dwelt at length on the unemployment problem, declaring that home communities should solve this problem by a program of education and guidance which will help the unemployed man to find a way to help himself.

"The world at large is in an awful mess," the speaker declared, "and something must be done about it. We are in a period of artificial prosperity at this time, but we must look for a return of trying conditions when the war is over."

He drew a comparison of the present situation with a hurricane which he experienced several years ago in the east. Mr. Sayre pointed out that part of the hurricane had struck, comparing this with the depression of the 1930's, then had come a period of calm, which he said compared with the present time when industry has been speeded up to produce war materials and many men have been given jobs with high wages.

Hurricane To Return

"We must remember," he pointed out, "that this hurricane will return after the war has ended and we will have many unsolved problems to handle unless we do something now about necessary adjustments that are certain to be facing us."

He called for his audience to do the tasks close at hand, declaring that a handful of "righteous men" is sufficient to completely remake a community. He cited Cincinnati, which has been almost remade in the last decade; Cleveland, which was built during the last generation by the efforts of Tom Johnson and Newton D. Baker and a few others who saw a problem and acted on it.

"Educators have a big task to do in trying to solve the day's problems, so have ministers and business men, but neither of these groups," Mr. Sayre said, "can solve the jobs itself. All must have a part and must welcome the opportunity to try to develop a sense of participation in any community problem."

Apathy Assailed

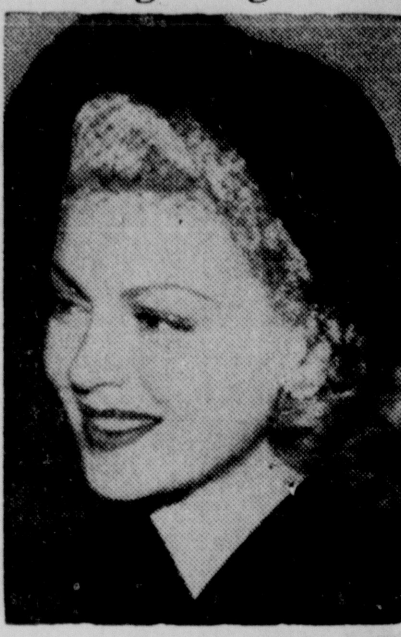

An interesting discussion of the work of Ravenna and Kent in handling the emergency brought by the U. S. arsenal construction was enjoyed.

Mr. Sayre went on to score the apparent apathy of the people concerning proper community functions, and called for a revival of faith in representative government.

He pointed to the Japs, Germans, Turks and Chinese as having almost completely changed their methods of living during a single lifetime.

In closing his interesting address the speaker read parts of a letter received by a friend from a Frenchman in which the writer discussed France's situation today, declaring that that once-great nation's condition could be blamed on the lack of interest in government and the failure of the

ERROR BY B. & O. WORKER BLAMED FOR COLLISION

CHILLICOTHE, Oct. 14—Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials said today a switch operator's failure to line up a switch on a siding for a freight was responsible for the crash yesterday of a streamlined flier and the freight locomotive at a siding 24 miles east of Chillicothe.

Nine persons, including four government officials ranging from Postmaster General Frank Walker to an Indian service representative were slightly hurt. Walker and his wife were traveling to St. Louis. Walker suffered only a slight head cut which was treated by the nurse-stewardess of the train. Mrs. Walker was unhurt.

Railroad officials said the engineer of the National Limited, the streamlined flier, had been warned in time that the eastbound freight train was in its path. The National slowed down, but was unable to make a complete stop and slowly skidded with locked brakes into the collision.

One thing Windsor was particularly interested in was the origin of the CCC and he asked who originated it. The answer was, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

NAZI SPUDS

Although intelligence experts have stopped making guesses on when Germany would run short of raw materials they have just pieced together some illuminating information concerning the German potato supply.

Several weeks ago Berlin cables reported an unofficial forecast on this year's crop at 65,000,000 metric tons. This is about 5,000,000 tons below the record 1940 crop of 70,000,000. That is not so bad, except that these figures, plus others now in the hands of authorities on German potato consumption reveals a situation not disclosed in cable dispatches.

For example: The effectiveness of the British blockade in shutting off food imports to Germany has forced the population to depend more and more on potatoes. So much so that potato consumption has risen 75 percent in the past year.

Further, the consumption increase has taken place in cities distant from potato-growing areas. That means they have to be hauled from over German railroads and trucklines, already heavily burdened with troop and munitions traffic. Intelligence experts therefore anticipate that the Nazis soon may be faced with the question of whether to haul potatoes to the cities or munitions to the Eastern front.

FRANKED STONE

Many a dull speech and many a heavy tome have been sent out from Washington, postage free, under the Congressional frank. But the all-time record for weight was broken by isolationist Senator Gerald W. Nye when, under his congressional frank, he mailed a stone.

The present Mrs. Nye comes from Iowa Falls, Iowa, and a zealous lady of a Methodist Church there has been put in charge of making a collection of stones—one from each state and colonial possession of the United States—for the construction of a fireplace in the church.

So she wrote to Senator Nye and asked if he would contribute a stone from his state of North Dakota. In due time it came—a nice big boulder, postage free, under Nye's senatorial frank.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

In a direct membership election, the American Newspaper Guild has overwhelmingly defeated the leftist clique which for several years has controlled the national offices of the union. The entire group was cleaned out and a militant anti-Red slate elected.

The isolationists aren't the only ones fighting the lifting of the ban on arming U. S. merchant ships. Three big steamship companies, United Fruit, Grace Lines and Moore-McCormack, behind the scenes also are opposing this move. They are passing around the word that they are against arming their vessels except in the event of war. The companies claim mounting guns on their ships will be bad for their profitable tourist business. . . . Flash!

"Doc" Townsend, mogul of the old-age pension movement, has revised his $200 a month scheme. In the Townsend Weekly" he announced that under the "scientific-cally-balanced" Townsend plan "the pension would begin at around $50 a month and increase as national recovery was brought about" . . . Thumbnail description of Wisconsin's ex-Governor Phil LaFollette, by an old political associate: "Like the cute little drum majorette of our high school band, Phil doesn't give a damn where the procession leads, just so he is leading it."

Cordell Hull has a new car, a long sleek limousine, but without either radio or heater. Quoted at $2,615 for the retail trade, the car cost the Government only $1,800. Also gas costs only 8 cents a gallon . . . Henry Wallace still attends the Spanish luncheon club he started at the Department of Agriculture. Every Friday he sits down with his old colleagues to break bread and polish up his Spanish . . . In constructing the mammoth new War Department building on the Virginia side of the Potomac, builders are driving so many piles—42,000 in clusters of seven—that engineers fear "boiling" of the land. The piles disturb so much earth that it's likely to erupt in other spots and disturb the construction.

MOTOR FACTORY IN SPRINGFIELD RESUMES WORK

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 14—Employees of the Springfield Motor Truck works of the International Harvester Company returned to work today, pending the outcome of a hearing before the National Defense mediation board on strike negotiations at the plant.

The strike was certified to the board by the Labor Department yesterday and the board immediately telegraphed the CIO's United Auto Workers' Union an appeal for members to return to work pending outcome of negotiations before the board.

Employees voted last night to return to work as the board requested and company officials announced that the first shift would resume operations at 7 a. m. today and that a regular schedule would be maintained from that point.

The strike began September 23, involving questions of a contract and layoffs. The plant is engaged in National Defense work.

CORN HARVEST NEARS RECORD

Yield In Ohio Expected To Be Second Largest In History

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—Present conditions indicate Ohio farmers this fall will harvest the second highest corn crop on record, the Ohio Cooperative Reporting Service reported today.

Prospects for corn on October 1 were slightly higher than a month previous with the present yield indicated at 48.5 bushels per acre, or 1.5 bushels higher than the 47 bushels expected on September 1. The 1940 yield was 37.5 bushels.

Total Ohio production of corn for 1941 was estimated at 157,722,000 bushels as compared with 120,750,000 bushels in 1940 and 139,956,000, the 10-year (1930-1939) average.

The service also reported that the indicated yields of most other late fall crops were the same or above that of a year ago.

Buckwheat, said the service, gives an indicated production of 198,000 bushels as compared with last year's 288,000.

Burley tobacco production was estimated at 10,938,000 pounds as compared with last year's 12,500,000.

Harvesting for soybeans is just beginning and present prospects, the service reported, point to a yield of 19.5 bushels per acre, or 4.5 bushels more than the 1940 yield. The 1941 production was estimated at 12,480,000 bushels as compared with 8,400,000 in 1940.

Sugar beets give an indication of a yield of 35,000 tons as compared with 375,000 in 1940. Peach production was estimated at 1,427,000 bushels as compared with 443,000 in 1940.

Lutheran Church Choir Enjoys Annual Banquet

Music as a builder of moral and spiritual fibers in a community was the general theme exemplified at the annual banquet of Trinity Lutheran Senior Choir Monday night at the Parish House.

Fifty-five persons, including members of the Senior Choir, the Junior Choir and their guests, attended the banquet and enjoyed the entertainment which followed.

Master of ceremonies was Charles Walters, and principal speaker was Professor Ellis E. Snyder, Capital University music instructor and former choir director at Trinity Lutheran Church. Mr. Snyder pointed to music as a "unifying force which drives men on to do things." It is a natural gift of self expression and it is the duty of everyone with that gift to sing, the speaker said.

Special musical numbers during the evening were furnished by Miss Mary Jane Daugherty, Miss Jeanne Putterbaugh, Miss Margarette Cullison and Miss Janice Merrill. All are students at Capital University.

Mrs. Willard Dudgeon, Circleville Route 2, was chairman of the banquet committee. Carl Leist, senior choir director, spoke briefly and Dr. G. J. Troutman, pastor emeritus was introduced.

WESTERVILLE, Oct. 14—Miss Vivian Peterman, 18-year-old sophomore from Dayton, was chosen Otterbein College's homecoming queen for the game with Marietta College October 25. She won in a runoff election over Miss Virginia Andrus, of Westerville, 198 votes to 163. The winner is a member of Theta Nu Sorority and is studying home economics.

After the meeting, which was held in Hanley's Tearoom, Mr. Sayre conferred with the Circleville Council for National Defense. This group which includes men appointed by Mayor W. B. Cady plans to meet at an early date to work out a comprehensive program of action for the good of the community. Tom E. Wilson, publisher of The Daily Herald, was named as temporary chairman of the committee, whose other members include Tom A. Renick, who obtained Mr. Sayre as the speaker; I. W. Kinsey, Herman Hill, Ray W. Davis, George P. Foresman, John D. Hummel, Charles H. Radcliff, James T. Shea, Forrest Short, Fred C. Clark and Bishop Given, most of the committee members being present Monday.

The Circleville Kiwanis Club, host to the meeting, went on record unanimously as endorsing Renick W. Dunlap of near Kingston, a member of the local club, as a candidate for governor of the Fifth Division of Kiwanis in 1942. Mr. Dunlap is chairman of the state committee on agriculture and a member of the agriculture committee of Kiwanis International.

Harold Defenbaugh, Circleville funeral director, and Bernard Heskett, a member of the Walnut Township school faculty, were inducted into the club as new members.

Yield In Ohio Expected To Be Second Largest In History

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—Present conditions indicate Ohio farmers this fall will harvest the second highest corn crop on record, the Ohio Cooperative Reporting Service reported today.

Prospects for corn on October 1 were slightly higher than a month previous with the present yield indicated at 48.5 bushels per acre, or 1.5 bushels higher than the 47 bushels expected on September 1. The 1940 yield was 37.5 bushels.

Total Ohio production of corn for 1941 was estimated at 157,722,000 bushels as compared with 120,750,000 bushels in 1940 and 139,956,000, the 10-year (1930-1939) average.

The service also reported that the indicated yields of most other late fall crops were the same or above that of a year ago.

Buckwheat, said the service, gives an indicated production of 198,000 bushels as compared with last year's 288,000.

Burley tobacco production was estimated at 10,938,000 pounds as compared with last year's 12,500,000.

Harvesting for soybeans is just beginning and present prospects, the service reported, point to a yield of 19.5 bushels per acre, or 4.5 bushels more than the 1940 yield. The 1941 production was estimated at 12,480,000 bushels as compared with 8,400,000 in 1940.

Sugar beets give an indication of a yield of 33,000 tons as compared with 375,000 in 1940. Peach production was estimated at 1,427,000 bushels as compared with 443,000 in 1940.
